Conrad Marca-Relli, Untitled, 1950
Oil on canvas

Clip, clop. That's the sound of this week's reindeer-themed Museum Stories. Take a few minutes to watch the short video.

LOOK

The untitled artwork by Conrad Marca-Relli has a lot of holiday colors. Can you find red, green, and the other colors in this painting? The artist let's us use our imagination to see all kinds of shapes in this painting. Do you see anything that might look like a reindeer?

READ

This week, the recommended book is Rudolph the Red-Nosed Reindeer. Just like the painting by Conrad Marca-Relli, the book features the color red! The popular book and song tell the story of a little reindeer who dreams of helping Santa. We see Rudolph's dreams come true as he gets to lead the other reindeer at the front of Santa's sleigh. It's an old and familiar tale that reinforces the message of perseverance.

MAKE

Watch the video for step-by-step instructions on how to make your own Rudolph puppet.
